FOREWORD

This genealogy of the Cantine family is dedicated to James and Charlotte (Hasbrouck) Cantine, compiled by their eldest grandchild, now living in her ninetieth year, in the stone house built at Stone Ridge in 1830 by James Cantine. To this house he brought his bride in 1838 and here she lived until her death in her one hundredth year. James Cantine had seven sisters and only one brother who died in infancy, and although he, himself, had nine children, there is no descendant of his branch of the family with the Cantine name.

There are few descendants of Moses Cantine with the family name now living in the region on the Hudson where he settled before 1700, but many in the branches which spread out through the west and south still bear the name of "Cantine". Still there are some reminders of the Cantine family in this section of Ulster County where they first settled for here they built their stone houses of the blue stone quarried on their land with walls two feet thick. Many of these houses are still standing in their original state in New Paltz, Hurley, Marbletown, Stone Ridge and Laurenskill. The little library of Stone Ridge, started by Matilda Cantine Van Winkle, is housed in one of these old homes and in this is a museum room in which are preserved some of the treasured antiques of the Cantine family.

I should like to thank all the Cantine descendants who have responded to my letters by sending in their own family records. Without this help it would have been impossible to get together a Cantine genealogy. Appreciation is also due to my good friend, Miss Mary Moulthrop, a genealogist of Rochester, New York for her help in properly arranging all this material for the printer.

Moyse Quantain, or Kantyn as the name early appears on the records, was the original representative of the family in America. He was a Huguenot and had fled from France under the persecution suffered by the Protestants in the time of Louis XIV, after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, October 18, 1685.

After a short stay in England, he sailed to America in 1686, his wife and child dying on the voyage. He joined the new settlement of French Huguenots at New Paltz, where a tablet to his memory is preserved at the Museum of the Huguenot Society.

In 1691 he married at New Paltz, Elizabeth (Deyo) LeFevre, daughter of Christian Deyo, one of the thirteen patentees of the town, and widow of Simon LeFevre, also a patentee.

In 1700 Moses Cantine was lieutenant of Militia at New Paltz and had a Letter Patent of Denization granted by King William in 1701. After the death of his wife, he removed to Kingston and in 1703 married Maritje (DeBois) DeWitt.

Soon after her accession to the throne, Queen Anne made a grant of land to Moses Cantine on the Hudson River at Roundout Creek, with the right to establish a ferry, the first across the Hudson. This was in the section called Pouckhockie, later Kingston Point. At first using large dugout canoes, he ran this ferry for many years, finally handing it over to his grandson Moses. Evidently he spent the latter years of his life in Marbletown with his son for he died there in 1744 and was buried in the old Dutch cemetery.

About 1718 George III made a grant of land to Kingston about twelve miles wide from the Hudson to Shawangunk Mountain. This strip of land was placed for sale in the hands of a Board of Trustees of which Peter Cantine was one of the first members from 1720 to 1726 and on which he served again from 1757 to 1760. He was a trustee of the Freeholders and Commonalty of the town of Kingston from 1720 to 1725.

Peter Cantine removed from Kingston to Mornel (later Marbletown) in the King's Grant about 1728 and in 1737 was one of the subscribers to build the Reformed Dutch Church in Marbletown. Before that date baptisms were performed by the pastor of the Kingston Church and were recorded there and even after that date many baptisms and marriages as well were recorded by the Kingston pastor.

Children: CANTINE - the baptismal records of all are in the Reformed Dutch Church of Kingston and all were born in Kingston except the last three who were born in Marbletown.

Early in the struggle of the Colonies for independence, Matthew Cantine showed his loyalty to their cause by signing the Articles of Association in May 1775. These Articles were signed by all six of the sons of Peter Cantine. He was a member of the Provincial Congress from Ulster County, which met at New York, November 14, 1775, and of the third Congress the next year. He was a member, also, of the fourth Congress which met at White Plains, July 9, 1776, when the Declaration of Independence was immediately adopted.

On April 22, 1777, Matthew Cantine was elected deputy [senator] to the New York Provincial Congress and was a member of the Committee which prepared the Constitution for the State, later adopted at the Congress. In that same year, he and his brother John, later Colonel John Cantine, were members sent by Marbletown to the Committee of Safety to investigate the loyalty of citizens.

Abraham Cantine lived on the old Cantine farm in Marbletown and operated the mill on Esopus Kill. Before the outbreak of the Revolution, he signed the Articles of Association and later served in the Fourth Regiment of Ulster County Militia. Peter Cantine signed the Articles of Association and later served in the Third Regiment of Ulster County Militia. He then moved to Wawarsing from Marbletown and took up a large farm in the section later Laurenkill where he spent the remainder of his life. There he built a stone house which is still standing. He left his farm to his sons Matthew and Jacob. Matthew had the stone house and Jacob built a log cabin and later a large frame house on the section he received.

John Cantine, like his brothers, was loyal to the cause of the Colonies, signing the Articles of Association and serving throughout the Revolution. In 1777 with his brother Matthew, he was a member, sent by Marbletown, of the Committee of Safety to investigate the loyalty of citizens. In 1778 in command of the Third Ulster County Regiment of Militia, he was defending the western frontier of Ulster and Orange Counties and later served on the staff of General Washington.

Long before the Revolution, General Cantine had become interested in the wild forest lands of central and southern New York. When peace had been established, many settlers hurried into the wilderness along the Susquehanna and Tioga Rivers before surveys could be made. In 1788 the Legislature appointed General Clinton, General Cantine, and John Hathorn, known as "Chemung Commissioners", to survey and lay out these lands and settle disputes as to ownership. For his services during the War and later, General Cantine received several grants of land, among them an allotment of 3,200 acres including the present towns of Slatterville Springs and Brooktondale. There he built the first saw mill and grist mill in 1800.

General Cantine was a delegate to the Convention for the adoption of the Constitution of the United States and served in the State Assembly from Ulster County from 1790 to 1797, in the State Senate in 1798 and as representative to Congress from 1801 to 1803.

By his will dated 1803, he not only cared for his children but freed his slaves and provided for their future care.

John Cantine Jr. in 1798 settled on the tract of land given him by his father in Caroline, Tompkins County. He married the daughter of a Frenchman, Jean Jacques Carte, who opposed the marriage but later relented. The French letters from him to his daughter are still to be seen at the Historical Society in Ithaca.

In 1804 on the site of the original log cabin, John Cantine built the first frame house in Caroline township, long called the "Mansion House". It is still standing in Brooktondale opposite the old grist mill. In 1828 he sold his property in Caroline to his brother and moved to Ithaca where he lived until his death in 1834.

Rev. James Cantine, D. D., was a pioneer missionary to Busrah, Arabia. He was brought up on the farm at Stone Ridge and attributed to that hardy early training those qualities of endurance which stood him in such good stead when he was exposed later to the rigors of the trying climate and unsanitary conditions of Arabia.

After graduating from Union College in 1883 as a Civil Engineer, he worked for the Westinghouse Company. He had become interested in Mission work, however, and having heard God's call to open work in Arabia, he entered New Brunswick Seminary in 1886, graduating in 1889. He left for Arabia with but one regret: that he must leave his aged mother whom he might not see again. Though his furloughs were at seven year intervals, she lived to welcome him home three times and proved a constant source of strength to him through her letters sent regularly until her death at the age of ninety-nine years.

His training as a Civil Engineer was not wasted for, as a pioneer missionary among the Mohammedans, he was able to show them how to better their living conditions.

It was said of Dr. Cantine at his funeral service, "Long years of association with the Arab served to bring to him something of that spirit of submission which is a keynote of Islam, that overwhelming sense of omnipotence of God, though with him it was graced by an abounding faith also in the love of God. Therein is found the secret of his imperturbable calm, his unwavering faith, which enabled him to face disappointment, suffering, and apparent failure with that sweet philosophical smile of utter confidence in the fundamental rightness of things, which none of us who knew him can ever forget."

According to the custom in the Methodist Church at that time, Dr. Cantine was transferred to other Churches on the Coast, but returned later to the First Church which he served until his retirement because of ill health shortly before his death.

James Cantine Huntington served in the United States Navy during World War I, from January 1916 to January 1920, three years with the Atlantic Fleet and one year with the Pacific Fleet. During World War II he served as Major in the Army Ordnance Office on Governor's Island from May 1942 to June 1946. He was in Reserve status as Lieutenant Colonel of Ordnance until February 1950. At the time of President Roosevelt's funeral, he was put in charge of the automotive transportation at Hyde Park and had "sixty-five sedans to handle with sixty-five drivers who had never been there before and did not know the roads. As there are one hundred five miles inside the grounds, it provided every opportunity for one or more drivers to get lost. Fortunately no one did and everything went off without a hitch."

Since 1946 he has been connected with the Albany Garage Inc., a seven-floor ramp garage, and is now General Manager in charge of garage and repair shop operations.
